

High tariffs on Electronic Imports

For the establishment of high tariffs on electronic imports in the United States

1. Be it enacted by the House of Congress of the United States of America in Congress
2. assembled. That high tax be placed on electronic items that are imported from foreign countries.
3. Whereas, electronic items are essential to the Americans, it is manufactured in this country.
4. The country has been advanced in the technological world way before most countries. Some
5. of the foreign countries learned, or "copied" from us, through several means. We need to
6. utilize our products, specifically electronic gadgets which include cell phones, televisions,
7. GPS devices, watches, DVD players, computers, printers, scanners, etc.
8. Utilizing our electronic products will help reduce (prevent) surplus in the country, which
9. would eventually aide in stimulating the economy.
10. Placing high tariffs on such items would also push most Americans to use items made by the
11. country. After all, we have the raw materials and possess the power to create the best electronic items in the whole world.
12. This bill should be reviewed and enacted before the end of April, 2010.
